Instructions for including SQL queries

It's strongly recommended that you return to the Filter with AND, OR, and NOT lab to include screenshots of your SQL queries in the command-line interface. If this isn't possible, you can also type your queries in this document.

When including samples of SQL queries, consider the following:

- There are multiple applications that can be used to take screenshots. If you're unsure how to take a screenshot on your device, you can perform an online search such as "how to take a screenshot in [your operating system]." Replace "[your operating system]" with the operating system your computer uses.
- Do not include the lab instructions on the right of the screen in your screenshots.
- For any typed queries, highlight your query in gray and use a monospaced font, such as in this example:

```
SELECT employeee_id, device_id

FROM employees;
```
